We believe the XR200R is one of Honda's best for-everybody dirt bikes, thanks to its advanced technology, affable and versatile nature, and conservative price. At $1625, the XR200R is more than $377 better than the standard-issue XR200, and $223 excellent offroad machine; however, it was for the most part obsolete about 20 years ago. The bike can still be accredited to having probably the best reliability of any full size bike out there. When properly setup and modified, the "little XR" can run with the modern big bikes, especially in the tight and nasty technical terrain.
