The Terrain is GMC's entry in the small to midsized SUV segment. While a decent enough offering, the model's competition is significantly better. The five-passenger mid-size SUV consumes fuel more...

GMC Terrain - Consumer Reports

CG Says: The GMC Terrain is redesigned and downsized for 2018. The new Terrain is about three inches shorter and up to 400 pounds lighter than the previous generation, which bumps it from the smaller side of our midsize SUV class to our compact SUV category. The Terrain shares its basic platform and powertrains with the Chevrolet Equinox, which is also redesigned this year.

2018 GMC Terrain Reliability - Consumer Reports

Terrain carves out its own niche in the midsize-SUV market with its "trucky" styling and luxury-leaning Denali model. The Denali adds a large number of comfort, convenience, and safety features, not to mention styling enhancements and improved ride quality.

2015 GMC Terrain | Consumer Guide Auto

Terrain Denali's 3,500-lb rating requires 2.0L Turbocharged gas engine and available trailering equipment. Before you buy a vehicle or use it for trailering, carefully review the trailering section of the Owner's Manual. The weight of passengers, cargo and options or accessories may reduce the amount you can tow.
